Bojie-Rodito Opportunities – Pantawid Pamasaha Program (BRO PPP)

PROGRAM OVERVIEW:

This program component aims to reduce the cost of transporting produce, increase the farmers’ savings, and serve as an incentive for them to be more productive and motivated to secure the sufficiency of quality rice and corn in the province. Farmers are given 50 centavos per kilo of rice or corn they sell to the National Food Authority (NFA). P1,250.00 are given to the small farmers selling to NFA; a maximum of 50 cavans of palay or corn is granted as incentives. The NFA shall include the transport cost in the overall payment of crop quantities bought.

IMPACT:

- May have influenced/transformed policy of National Government Agency like NFA to adopt Isabela's policy on programs supportive of farmer's enhancement:
 - Passbooking is now free of charge.
 - Relaxed NFA-passbooking requirements.
- NFA policy now becomes a policy adopted nationwide.
- Enhanced contribution to productivity by farmers.
- The program impacts shall bring about the farmers' realization on the role of government in their social transformation. On the other hand, the project may cause failure of a political successor who would continue its implementation.
